Court Orders 'Cooling Off' In Ship Tieup

NEW YORK (AP)—A temporary restraining order was issued Monday night, starting an 80-day cooling off period in the national maritime strike.

Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan, in issuing the order, said continuation of the strike would result in "irreparable harm and injury" and imperil the national health and safety.

Even as Ryan acted, attorneys for at least two of the unions involved attempted to set in motion legal machinery to appeal the decision.

The union attorneys went to the summer home of Judge Charles E. Clark of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Hamden, Conn. Their object was to delay the start of the cooling off period provided in the Taft-Hartley Act.

Ryan said the restraining order had been filed and was in effect, thus ending at least temporarily the multimillion dollar, 18-day strike involving more than 80,000 mariners.

The order is directed against, among others, the National Maritime Union, the Seafarers International Union of North America, the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, the International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots, the American Radio Association, and the Radio Officer Union.

At 2 p.m. Friday Ryan will hear a motion for a temporary injunction.

Earlier, President Kennedy had finally and reluctantly moved in court for an injunction to halt the costly strike while new attempts are made to reach a settlement. It was his first recourse to the law in his six months in office.

Behind the President's action lay at least two grave factors—reports of impending famine in the Hawaiian Islands and the compounding of the nation's critical unemployment picture through the paralyzing effects of the shipping strike.

Two of the five striking seamen's unions opposed the government's Taft-Hartley application on grounds that as supervisory employees above and below decks they are not subject to the law. They were the Marine Engineers Union and the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union.

Gettysburg Battle's Anniversary Recalls Death Of Wellsville Man

Ninety-eight years ago today the smoke of battle still hung over the hot summer fields of Gettysburg as Federal and Confederate forces counted their dead in the wake of one of the most important battles of the Civil War.

AND THE anniversary is more than a date on the calendar for a Wellsville woman, whose grandfather died in connection with that titanic struggle — wearing the uniform of a sergeant of the U. S. Cavalry with the Army of the Potomac.

Sgt. Nicholas Dick Jr. was killed in the Gettysburg campaign but the family records are clouded as to the exact date, according to Mrs. George H. (Lyda) Rowen, 930 Main St.

But they have a treasured letter, written Dec. 2, 1862, in which he told gleefully of Federal advances.

A skirmish he recalled apparently was one of the probings that preceded the start of the Battle of Gettysburg, July 1, 1863, after weeks of jabbing by both sides as Gen. Robert Lee headed for Pennsylvania with 76,224 men and 272 guns.

PRESIDENT Lincoln made Gen. George C. Meade top commander of the Federal forces consisting of 115,256 men in the Army of the Potomac with 90,000 effectives. The federal guns totaled 362. They were soon bearing on each other.

Gen. Lee's attack was checked July 2 and the wily Confederate later retreated into Virginia, licking his wounds. Gen. Meade did not pursue.

Whether Sgt. Dick was among the casualties of that titanic conflict is not clear but the kind of fighting he wrote about was common during the campaign.

THE ANNIVERSARY of the battle, and the fact that Mrs. Rowen is from Pennsylvania, helped make it a poignant date for her.

Sgt. Dick left a widow and six children, including an infant, who was Mrs. Rowen's mother, Mrs. Sarah Dick. Mrs. Rowen's hometown is Vanderbilt, Pa.

THE DASHING CAVALRYMAN has faded away from the military scene, along with the yellow-striped uniform trousers and long saber that were his proud trademarks, but in Civil War campaigns he was the eyes of the army and fought probing missions behind the lines. The old photo shows Sgt. Nicholas Dick Jr., grandfather of Mrs. George H. Rowen of Wellsville, who lost his life in a Civil War battle 98 years ago—probably the titanic struggle at Gettysburg.

from camp at the Jerusalem Plank Rd., dated Dec. 2, 1862, he told of one of the raids made by his regiment in the Army of the Potomac. His description follows:

"WE LEFT camp at 3 yesterday morning and got back at half past 8 last night. We went 21 miles to the Rebs railroad. We had lots of fun charging the Rebs breast works.

"We captured 232 prisoners, 2 pieces of artillery, 7 wagons, 2 yokes of oxen and burned 2 stations with thousands of dollars worth of grain, 50 barrels of apple jack, any amount of molasses and oil and quartermasters' stores.

"We destroyed the railroad, cut the telegraph wires, destroyed about one million of dollars worth of property for the Rebs and we only got 10 or 12 men wounded of our regiment.

"Killed one lieutenant and one corporal. I never saw as slick a done-up raid in my life as our boys charged this fort dismounted. It was fun to see Leonard Shaffer go in.

"One ball struck our captain in the shin, cut his boot a little. Our boys just went in on things ruffshod. Will send you some tringes that I got off one of the boys that they got out there."

Hoffa Lays Plans For Union Lobby

By NORMAN WALKER Associated Press Labor Writer MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Denouncing government officials from President Kennedy on down, Teamsters President James R. Hoffa pledged Monday to establish a union lobbying organization in Washington "second to none."

Hoffa said politicians promise unions everything before election day, but forget them on attaining office. He said Kennedy had sharply criticized using court injunctions to end strikes but only Monday had moved for a Taft-Hartley law court order to end the shipping tieup.

The head of the nation's largest labor union, making a surething bid for a new five-year term, also told the opening session of a special union convention the Teamsters no longer will pay any attention to AFL-CIO Union jurisdictional claims.

Hoffa said the AFL-CIO is failing to do its job of organizing workers so the Teamsters will be compelled to broaden their own constitutional jurisdiction to take in every type of worker, regardless of rival union claims.

"We'll organize anybody we want," Teamsters Secretary-Treasurer John English said later. "There will be no jurisdictions."

Hoffa and English both took jobs at AFL-CIO President George Meany. Hoffa suggested, without further explanation, that Meany's background years ago as a union official in New York should be investigated. English accused Meany of trying to get him to oust Hoffa from the Teamsters.

In charting his program for the years ahead, Hoffa promised a precinct-by-precinct Teamsters political buildup, a mammoth lobbying operation in Washington to replace "those pot-bellied, slick individuals who represent the employers in Congress," and a stepped up organizing drive in the South and other areas.

Hoffa told his convention the administration and Congress are

Brown Seeks New Term On School Board

Postmaster Samuel W. Brown filed Monday afternoon with the County Election Board for a second term on the Board of Education.

Now vice president of the board, Brown's term is one of two expiring this year. The other term is that of Leo C. Lawrence, who has indicated he will not seek re-election.

Brown is the second to formally enter the race. Harry D. McConville, of Ross Meadows, an agent for the Internal Revenue Service, filed about two weeks ago.

Two women — Mrs. Nessie Dunlop and Mrs. Verna Standley Stone — also have announced they will be candidates, indicating the most interest in the school posts in nearly 10 years. A career postal employee with

Quorum Lack Hits Council's Meeting Plan

Session Postponed From Holiday Eve Until Friday Night

Because only three members appeared, Council recessed its meeting Monday night until Friday night at 9, including a caucus with officials of the Ohio Valley Gas Co. on the utility's request for a rate increase.

The lack of a quorum also forced Council to postpone action on six pieces of legislation.

The meeting last night lasted only about five minutes, long enough for roll call, invocation by Maj. William Hathorn of the Salvation Army and a motion to postpone the session until Friday night.

Attending were Councilmen Robert Laughlin, John Melvin and Donald E. Smith, and Council President Charles N. Edwards, who has no vote. At least four voting members are required to transact business.

The caucus session Friday night with Harold Sneddon, local manager of the gas company, to hear the utility's application for a rate increase in East Liverpool and 10 other Ohio Valley communities was set for 8, an hour before the recessed meeting will be held.

The legislation delayed last night includes a resolution authorizing Safety-Service Director Lee Copenhaver to make an application to the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency for loan to prepare plans for the second stage of the city freeway from the intersection of W. 3rd and Monroe Sts. to the Chester Bridge.

Toll Heading For New High Over Holiday

Traffic Boating Drowning Misc. Total

351 35 114 77 577

By The Associated Press With millions of Americans roving the highways bent on holiday recreation, traffic deaths soared Monday toward a possible record 500 for the long Fourth of July weekend.

The largest highway death toll ever recorded in the nation for a summer holiday period was 491 during the four-day Independence Day weekend of 1950. This was not an all-time high, however. The worst holiday traffic fatality count was during the four-day Christmas weekend of 1956 when 706 were killed.

George C. Stewart, executive vice president of the National Safety Council, said late Monday that the toll continued to run ahead of the council's estimate and the pace of 1950.

"Unless this trend is checked," he said, "the final toll will exceed 500, the most tragic summer holiday in our history."

He urged motorists to assume personal responsibility for checking "this insane race to a new record."

The council had estimated before the holiday that 450 traffic deaths would occur during the 102-hour weekend holiday period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Tuesday.

Factors in the high toll apparently were prevalence of good weather for outdoor recreation, a possible record volume of cars on the roads, and a contrast in driving attitudes which placed speeders and crawlers on the heavily dotted arteries.

Non-holiday test sampling of traffic deaths taken by The Associated Press two weeks ago during the four-day, 102-hour period from 6 p.m. Friday, June 16, to midnight Tuesday, June 20, recorded a 326 toll. Boating deaths during the period numbered 33, and 80 drownings not related to boat accidents were reported. With 99 other accident deaths in various categories, the overall toll was 538 during the test period.

A record traffic death toll for the Memorial Day holiday was set earlier this year when 462 fatalities were counted in the nation's traffic. This period, too, (Turn to HOLIDAY, Page 9)

Dag Rejects Reds' U. N. Revamp Bid

UNITED NATIONS. (AP)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld Monday rejected any application of the Soviet Union's "troika" principle to the U.N. Secretariat or its top administrative machinery.

Hammarskjöld made his stand in disclosing his own proposals for a shakeup in the distribution of responsibilities among senior U.N. officials.

The Soviet Union has been demanding the replacement of Hammarskjöld by a three-man triumvirate representing the Western, Communist and neutral nations.

A report by a committee of eight experts on reorganization of the U.N. secretariat last month contained a recommendation from the Soviet representative that the principle be applied to approximately 1,300 U.N. professional posts.

Hammarskjöld said it was obvious that such a proposal runs "counter to the U.N. Charter. Secretariat representation that would be determined by political or ideological groupings would be unrelated to geographical distribution. Nor could it be justified on grounds of equity."

He rejected also as unworkable a proposal from three neutralist experts — India, Ghana and the United Arab Republic — that he name three top level deputy secretaries to work under him. They would represent "the main political trends in the world today."

Hammarskjöld's proposals were offered in detailed comment on the report by the eight experts. The eight endorsed a plan to bring Communist countries up to their quota of U.N. professional jobs by putting Eastern Europeans into 110 posts falling vacant this year and next. But they split on the over-all problem of how to get the most economy and efficiency out of the secretariat.

The secretary-general came up with these suggestions: Senior U.N. officials would be split into two categories, one with political and the other with administrative responsibilities. There would be no difference in rank, but those with political tasks would be classified as assistant secretaries-general and those with administrative tasks under secretaries-general.

Brake Failure Blamed

City Couple Hurt In Crash Of Autos Near Substation

A city couple was injured in a traffic mishap Monday afternoon at 2:55 near Substation when their auto was struck by the car of a Center Alley woman who said her brakes failed as she descended a slight grade.

The Lisbon State Highway Patrol said the collision at the intersection of Routes 30 and 170 involved cars driven by Clara A. Chippis, 50, of 220½ Center Alley and William D. Argabrite of Manor Ln.

The patrol said the Center Alley woman was traveling south, turning east, when the brakes of her auto failed. She went left of center and struck Argabrite's 1954 model coupe, the patrol said.

Argabrite, 69, was treated at City Hospital for chest injuries, contusions and abrasions and a sprain of the left shoulder.

His wife, Mrs. Goldie Argabrite, a passenger, was treated for chest injuries and contusions of the nose and gums. Both later were released.

The patrol reported extensive damage to Argabrite's auto that was heading east, turning north, and to the Center Alley woman's 1951 coach.

The patrol said neither driver was cited and the woman driver was not injured.

Dave Goodballet Hurt In Turnpike Collision

David Goodballet, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Goodballet, 1113 St. George St., is in a hospital at Bedford, Pa., with injuries suffered Sunday afternoon in a crash while he and four other Navy men were returning to their station at Dam Nick, Va.

Claim Iraq Buildup

British Improve Kuwait Positions

KUWAIT (AP)—British troops advanced their lines across the oil sheikdom to within five miles of Iraq's border Monday. Reinforcements and supplies poured in to help counter what British intelligence agents called a continued buildup of Iraqi regiments across the frontier.

Air Marshal Sir Charles Elworthy, commander in chief of British Middle East forces, said he now has more than 3,000 troops on hand—after a hazardous start caused by bad flying weather.

Elworthy expressed confidence in a talk with newsmen that this contingent, backed by navy and air force firepower, is capable of meeting any aggression from Iraq, which claims Kuwait as an Iraqi province.

"I'll be still more confident at dawn tomorrow," he said, meaning the flow of reinforcements was to continue overnight.

The British are not alone. The 2,400-man army of Kuwait's ruler Sheikh Sir Abdullah as-Salim as-Sabah, was alerted when Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassam voiced the annexation threat June 25. Thousands of Bedouin tribesmen have been armed and sent to the frontier. And a detachment of Saudi Arabian troops, the number unstated, arrived Monday.

(A Damascus newspaper, Al Wahda, said the Saudi Arabians totaled 1,800. If that is true the combined units approach divisional strength. Iraq is supposed to have an army of 70,000, but is no match for the British in war machinery.

(Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told the House of Commons in London that Iraq was ready to invade Kuwait before British troops moved in Saturday and "there are no signs of the threat diminishing." First things first, he said in response to a Laborite suggestion that Britain ask the United Nations to take over police duty in Kuwait.

(Iraq again denied that it is concentrating troops against Kuwait. It insisted its claim to sovereignty will be advanced by peaceful means. A Foreign Ministry spokesman in Baghdad called the British landings a direct threat to Iraq's security

Probation Hearing Held

Details Of Gasoline Theft Revealed In Lisbon Court

Three employees of the American Oil Co. terminal on the River Rd. denied allegations of carelessness in the handling of gasoline at a hearing Monday in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon: at the same time revealing details of the operation of what the state charges was a wholesale theft ring.

The hearing before Judge Joel H. Sharp was, in effect, a probation hearing for James H. Martin, 38, of 2021 Chester Ave., Wellsville, and Robert Wright, 30, of Pleasant Heights.

The court withheld its decision until after the trial of Robert Deering, 32, of East Liverpool, scheduled for Monday, July 17.

Martin and Wright requested probation last April after pleading guilty to the Oct. 19 theft of approximately 2,500 gallons of gasoline valued at $326.92 from the Amoco Terminal on River Rd.

Deering is charged with grand larceny. Authorities say he had two pickup trucks with 300- and 500-gallon tanks, got "free" gasoline with the help of ex-Amoco Employees Martin and Wright, and made clandestine deliveries to area service stations.

Deering disappeared last fall the day the State Highway Patrol ended its investigation. He was apprehended in May at Arcadia, Fla., living with his mother.

Both Martin and Wright testified yesterday, as they did on pleading in April, that it was a common practice for Amoco employees and truck drivers to get free gasoline from the service pumps.

No one was very careful with records, they said, because the terminal handled such quantities

Midland Fete To Highlight Area Holiday

Thousands Waited At Parade Opening Traditional Events

The Tri-State area's attention will center today on Midland, where the traditional big July 4th celebration will be launched with a parade at 10:30 this morning.

Committeemen predicted 10,000 to 20,000 will jam the borough's streets for the celebration, promising it will match any of former years. The parade lineup had climbed to 77 units Monday and more than 100 may be in the procession when it begins to move along Midland Ave.

The theme of the celebration, "United for Freedom," will be used in the 17 adult and youth floats.

Afternoon and evening programs also are planned. During the evening at the high school stadium, three top national drum and bugle corps will compete—the Latrobe Colonials, the Westmoreland Esquires and the Toledo Demons. The Pittsburgh Rockets will not compete, but will give an exhibition.

Night-time aerial fireworks have been increased 30 per cent this year. They may be viewed from the stadium.

The day's program includes: 9 a.m. — Flag-raising at Lincoln Park by American Legion Post 481 and the Midland High School Band.

9:30 — Parade units assemble at 1st St. playground.

10:30 — Parade starts up Midland Ave., left on 11th St. and around Lincoln Park.

of argument, then put off his decision for the time being.

The law, if applied, calls for a 10-day restraining order, to be followed by the remainder of an 80-day cooling-off period in the strike.

Kennedy first invoked provisions of the Taft-Hartley law a week ago by appointing a three-man presidential fact-finding board. The panel, however, concentrated on mediating the strike of more than 80,000 mariners. For a time, success seemed at hand, but then a split between unions wrecked hopes for a settlement. From Hyannis Port, Mass., where he is vacationing, Kennedy finally gave the word that sent U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau into U.S. District Court in quest of the injunction.

"Unless the strike is enjoined," the government said in its complaint, "the United States of America will suffer immediate and irreparable injury for which it has no adequate remedy at law."

In support of its petition, the government offered an affidavit from Gov. William F. Quinn of Hawaii, who said the 50th state will have exhausted its supplies of such staples as rice and canned milk by July 21. He said shipping time involved requires supplementary supplies leave the mainland no later than July 8, if a crisis is to be avoided.

Quinn also said the islands are critically short of potatoes, onions, lettuce, tomatoes and livestock and poultry supplies.

In another affidavit, Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg said the strike "compounds our already critical unemployment problem."

The strike of five unions in 30 port cities of the nation began June 15 over demands for union representation aboard runaway ships — American owned vessels flying foreign flags. Economic issues were listed as of secondary importance at the time.

Goldberg, after vainly trying to head off the strike, failed also to break the contract deadlock. Thus, a week ago the presidential fact-finders moved in.

Ostensibly, the board's mission was to assess the perils confronting the nation as a result of the strike, a technical prelude to a Taft-Hartley injunction.

Instead, the board managed to bring about resumption of peace talks. These led to tentative agreements, with three of the striking unions willing to shelve the runaway ship issue and settle for a 21 per cent increase in wages and fringe benefits over a four-year period. The three were the National Maritime Union, with 37,000 members, the Masters, Mates and Pilots with 11,000, and the American Radio Association with 1,000.

However, the other two unions held out for immediate settlement of the foreign flag issue. These were the 22,000-member International Seafarers Union and the Marine Engineers Union, with 11,000 members.

NMU President Joseph Curran said of the tentative agreement his union has reached with some shippers:

"This union, if it ratifies the agreement, will be finished with it (the strike). Let anybody who wishes go out (after the 80-day injunction period) on this stupid venture, this irresponsible venture, they will be alone."

The NMU's was among a number of piecemeal settlements that released about 340 of nearly 1,000 American ships from strike action. Only about 250 vessels actually were tied up by the walk-out. The rest, at sea, faced immobilization only if they made port. Foreign ships were not affected.

Labor Secretary Goldberg listed as still unsolved disputes between the American Merchant Marine Institute and the Marine Engineers; the Tankers Labor Services Committee and the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union and the Engineers; the Pacific Maritime Association and the American Radio Association and the NMU and the Engineers; and Alcoa and the SIU and the Engineers.

Both Kennedy and Goldberg made it plain from the outset that they looked with displeasure on invocation of the Taft-Hartley law. Kennedy voted against it as a congressman, and Goldberg fought it as attorney for the AFL-CIO. Goldberg said he reluctantly recommended the injunction action, only because the administration felt itself bound by the law, no matter how distasteful it found it.

From Hyannis Port, Kennedy urged both sides to continue to strive for a settlement of the strike. He added his administration will press in Congress for improved mechanism for dealing with national emergency strikes, and improved collective bargaining machinery in the maritime industry.

of fuel its loss allowance was 500 gallons a day.

These claims by the ex-employees were denied by Charles Griffith, terminal supervisor; Paul Schartzler, yardman, and Norris Leigh, terminal clerk.

Martin said the large scale thefts began in the fall of 1959 through his friendship with Deering. He said Deering gave him money and that he in turn gave some of it to Wright, who acted as a lookout.

Wright said the trucks were filled from the loading platform tank by removing the meter head. When the pickup truck tank was filled, either Martin or Wright would re-install the head and affix a new seal. The theft occurred on the midnight to morning turn, they said.

Both defendants said they were unable to estimate how much gasoline was hauled away or how much money they got in return.

2 Drivers Pay Fines, Another Forfeits $15

Two motorists were fined and a third forfeited bond in Mayor Ray Collin's court at Chester Monday night.

Herbert C. Moore, 37, of 3rd St. Ext., Chester, was fined a total of $50 and costs on two charges. He pleaded guilty to driving a car on expired temporary Ohio license plates and driving without a West Virginia operator's permit. He was fined $25 and costs on each.

Mrs. Mayme B. Everly of Hookstown was fined $10 and costs for failure to have her auto under control. She pleaded guilty. Mrs. Everly was cited following a two-car mishap Thursday afternoon at Carolina Ave. and 2nd St.

Wilbert King, 17, of Georgetown R. D. 1 forfeited a $15.50 bond when he failed to appear for a hearing on a charge of operating an unsafe motor vehicle. He was arrested Friday night. Lights and brakes on his car were found defective, police said.

and urged all Arabs to unite against "this tyrannical imperialistic aggression."

Elworthy said his intelligence reports showed Iraqis were still building up military concentrations on the frontier.

"Our positions are 100 per cent defensive," he added. "There is no conceivable (hostile) operation by us unless the Iraqis cross the border. The last thing we want is a shooting match."

The air marshal arrived from Bahrain, a British protectorate 270 miles south of Kuwait in the Persian Gulf. He reached Kuwait's capital by helicopter.

He called promptly on Sheikh Abdullah, 66, who appealed Saturday morning for British help under the terms of a June 19 agreement which ended the sheikdom's 62-year-old role as a British protectorate.

The monarch gave Elworthy a message for Queen Elizabeth II expressing his and his people's gratitude for the intervention.

Brig. Derek G. Horsford, field commander of the British operation, said his men and tanks now are stationed behind all the 100-mile border with Iraq—the nearest within five miles.

No troops yet have been placed round the huge oil field developed by British and American interests south of the capital. But Horsford said he has reserves in hand who will cover the field if necessary.

The Kuwait Oil Co., jointly owned by British and Americans, closed down operations in the outlying regions. These operations have been supplied by air and the company did not want to get its planes mixed up with Royal Air Force jets.

The biggest plant closed was at the Raudhatein oil field in northern Kuwait. It was 29 wells. Minagish field, closed down in the south, has four wells.

The company said loss of the production was made up immediately by increasing the extraction rate at other wells.

Rashid al Rashid, the assistant secretary of state, left Kuwait by air for New York with two letters for U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld—one a formal application for membership and the other a declaration of adherence to U.N. principles.

NEW YORK — Tax relief has been given two New York theatrical ventures, City Center and the Phoenix Theater. A new state law exempts them, as non-profit ventures, from the city's 5 per cent admission tax on entertainment tickets. Tax Yield Drops For Fiscal Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A sharp drop in sales tax receipts was the big factor as total tax revenues accruing to the Ohio general revenue fund during the fiscal year just ended failed to match the previous year's total.

State Auditor James A. Rhodes reported Monday that collections for the year ended June 30, 1961, amounted to $444,609,432. This revenue, from 10 tax sources, was $3,516,659 under the $448,126,091 received in fiscal 1960.

Seven taxes brought increased revenues — inheritance, cigarette, corporation franchise, liquor gallonage, foreign insurance, use and horse racing — an aggregate of $13,507,543 over the previous year.

But sales tax receipts, totaling $242,268,013, were down almost $12 million; intangibles fell more than $3 1/2 million, and beer, wine and malt taxes dropped nearly $1 1/2 million.

Rhodes reported at the same time that gasoline tax revenues amounted to $224,569,265, a gain of $715,474 over the previous year; but that liquor profits sagged to $42 million, a drop of $6 million.

Electric Firm Studies Economic Prospects

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., which serves an area in all or parts of 23 counties in central and southern Ohio, announced today it is beginning a long-range study of the economy of its area and its probable growth in the next 25 years.

Battelle Memorial Institute of Columbus, a private research organization, will conduct the study over a two-year period.

The study will include, first, the evaluation in terms of natural factors such as climate, topography, soils, minerals and water, then in the light of people and human enterprise such as agriculture, mining, forestry, manufacturing.

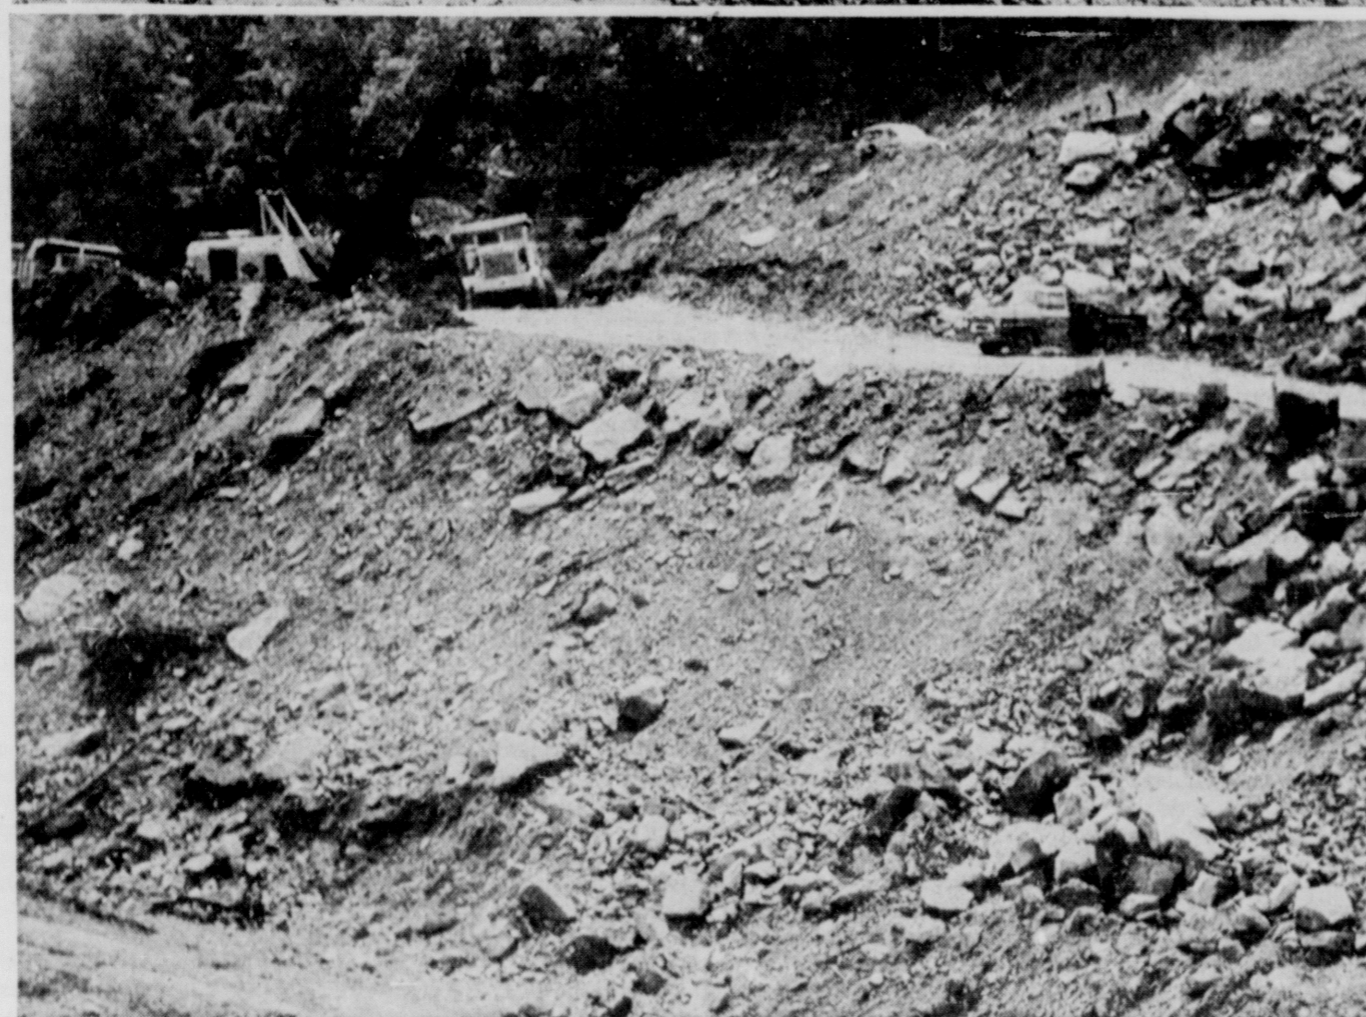

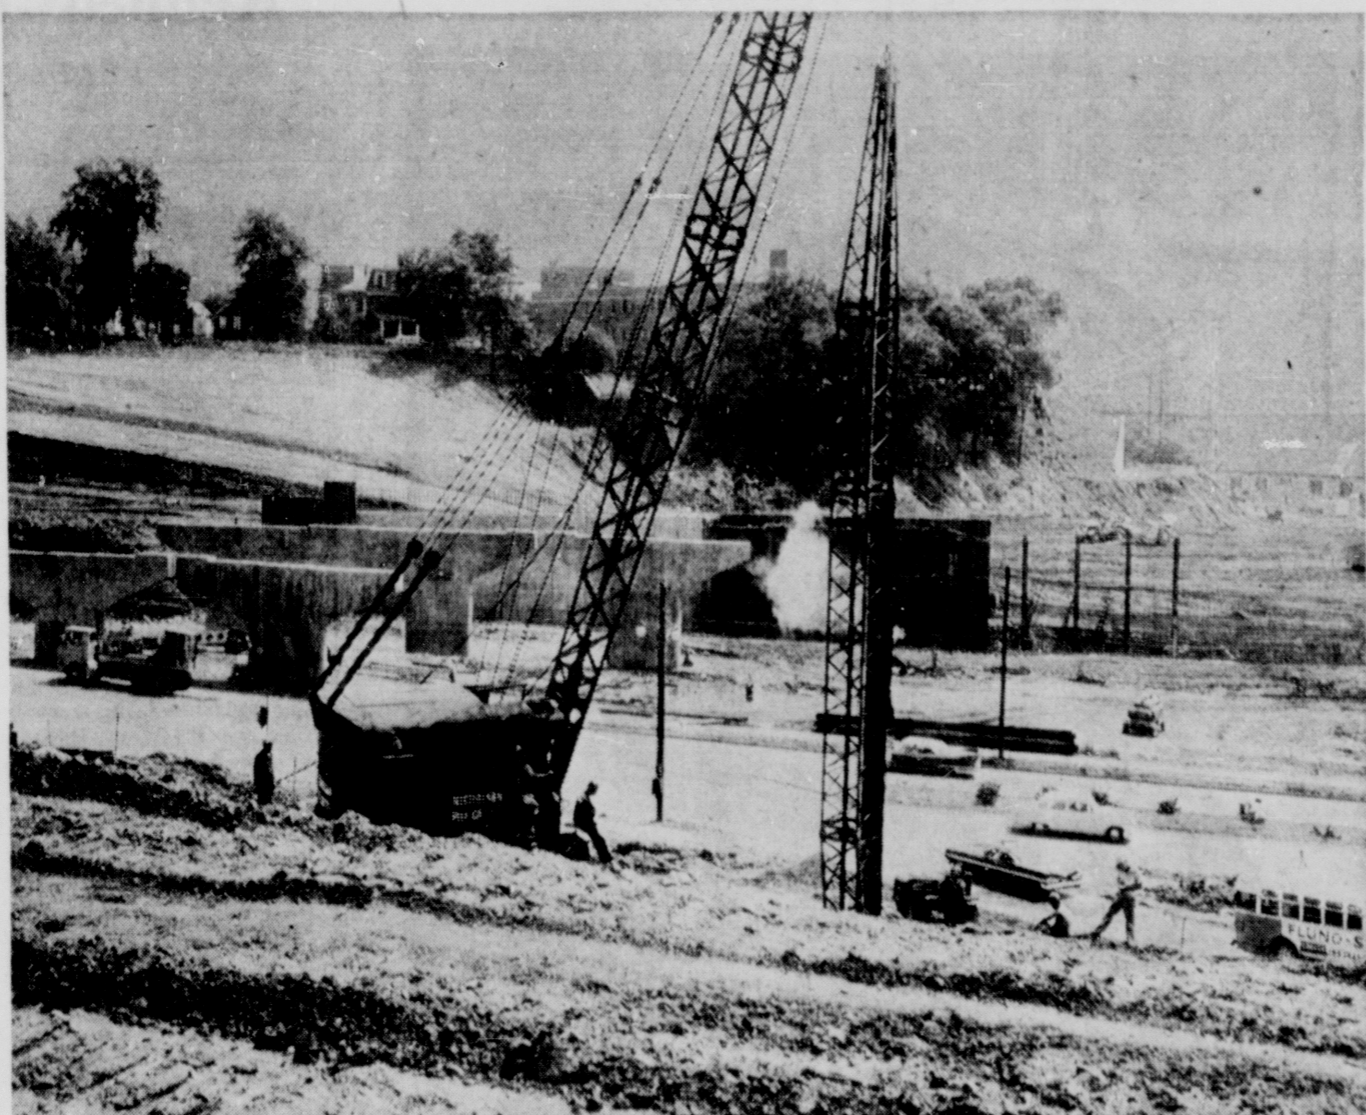

Next, the Battelle team will consider the impact of various forces on the area's economic structure, then in the third phase it will evaluate various courses of action that could contribute to the balanced economic and cultural growth.

Cumberland Church Sends 13 To Chicago

NEW CUMBERLAND — The Rev. Allen S. Fields of the Christian Church and 12 young boys and girls left today to attend the 46th annual Christian Endeavor convention through Saturday in Chicago.

The group made the trip with Jefferson County youngsters by chartered bus. The convention is inter-denominational.

A LONG WAY TO GO. Work on the new city freeway is halted today because of the holiday, but the prime contractors, Chapin & Chapin, Inc., of Norwalk and Baker & Hickey, Inc., of Columbus have been working at top speed after finally getting a break in the weather. The top photo shows a pile driver of the Nicholson Pile Co. of Pittsburgh, which has a sub-contract with Baker & Hickey, driving pile for one of the spans to carry the freeway and interchange ramps across W. 8th and Lisbon Sts. Some of the completed piers can be seen in the background. The bottom photo shows a Chapin & Chapin unit dumping earth into an open end dump truck in the vicinity of the old stone quarry on Dresden Ave. The roadway will be at two levels in this area, where virtually all of the stone and dirt must be moved.

Negroes Picket 2 Papers In Ohio

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's two daily newspapers — The Enquirer and The Post & Times — are being picketed by members of the Congress on Racial Equality and The National Association for Advancement of Colored People for alleged "prejudice" in classified advertising.

Pickets — both white and negro — made token appearances in front of both newspaper offices Saturday. They were on duty again Monday at the Enquirer but The Post & Times-Star, located on the fringe of the downtown area, reported none had been noticed there.

Signs borne by the pickets mentioned both newspapers and urged persons to cancel subscriptions for a week beginning Tuesday.

Leaflets handed out to passersby said both papers "have refused to eliminate discriminatory phrases in their classified housing advertisements."

Officials of neither paper made any comment.

Kentucky Night Spots Face Gambling Probe

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The plush Beverly Hills night spot and two other northern Kentucky establishments have been cited on state charges of allowing gambling.

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board cited Beverly Hills, Inc., Southgate, and Harold Marks, Newport, to appear at hearings July 25, and Saul Polinsky, of the Embassy Bar, to appear July 24.

The board recently intensified law enforcement in Campbell County on orders of Gov. Bert Combs.

Beverly Hills was charged with setting up and operating gambling games such as dice, cards, and roulette.

Marks was charged with permitting gambling and setting up more than one bar at which whiskey was sold.

The Embassy Bar was charged with operating a handbook and with permitting a female to act as bartender.

Jobless Total Of City Drops

Unemployment claims in East Liverpool set a year's low in June, just managing to eclipse the previous low in February, Harry L. Dinsmore, manager of the Ohio State Employment Service office, said Monday.

The office processed a total of 3,780 claims last month, one less than in February but 672 under the 4,452 filed in May, Dinsmore said. The total claims included 2,886 filed under the regular program and 894 processed under the federal extension plan, Dinsmore explained.

New claims totaled 524, down 49 from May's total but still more than the low of 507 in March. The new claims included 60 under the federal extension and 464 on the regular program.

Continued claims reached 3,256, a drop of 623 from May's total of 3,879 but 111 more than the low of 3,145 in February. The claims included 834 under the extended program and 2,422 on the regular basis.

The office had 1,367 registered for work last month and placed 61 in jobs.

Ohio Forms New 'Air Guard' Units

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three new military organizations were created as a result of orders issued today by the Ohio Adjutant General's Department.

The three, all part of Ohio's Air National Guard, will operate at the Clinton County Air Force Base near Wilmington. They will be responsible for the Air Guard's new in-flight refueling mission, Brig. Gen. E. O. Clark, assistant Adjutant General for Air, said today.

The new units are the 160th Air Refueling Group, commanded by Lt. Col. Frank H. Cattran, of Akron; the 160th Air Base Squadron, commanded by Maj. Fred Malen of Canton; and the 145th Air Refueling Squadron, commanded by Maj. Perry Momchilov of Akron.

The latter is a redesignation of the 145th Aero-Medical Squadron, formerly stationed at Akron-Canton Airport.

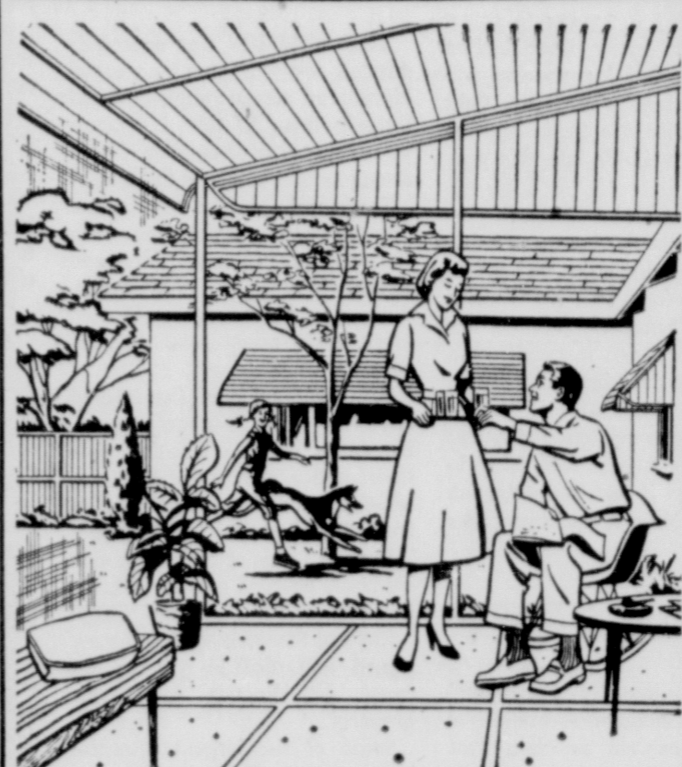

The in-flight refueling mission supplements the Air Guard's tactical role by extending the range of its jet fighter-bombers, Gen. Clark said. Crews presently are being trained to fly the four-engine KC-97 aerial refueling planes which will be delivered to the Air Guard in the near future.

12 Lacking Licenses Get Holiday Leniency

NEW CUMBERLAND — Showing leniency because of the holiday weekend, Mayor Albert Fucy Monday night let off 12 motorists with warnings instead of fines after their arrests Saturday for driving with expired city driver's licenses.

The dozen drivers were cited by Police Chief William Webster. The deadline for renewal was Saturday noon. Village Hall was busy Monday renewing licenses. The mayor said another traffic check will be held this week to assure that all drivers have renewed their city licenses.

Mayor Fucy also fined Clarke Stewart of Chester $5 and $6 costs for improper passing. Glenn Annett, 22, of 531 Harrison St., Newell, forfeited a $10 bond on charges of hazardous driving and failing to have an inspection sticker.

Baking tip: when you are making biscuits, flour the edge of the cutter before each cutting; press the cutter straight down on the biscuit dough without twisting.

Use a pint of boiling water and a tablespoon of salt when you are cooking a pound of fresh shrimp in their shells. Simmer the seafood, do not boil it or it will toughen.

No Indemnity To Fidel Castro

Because it was held to be true that the White House had turned on a green light for the U.S.-tractors-for-Cuban-prisoners deal, it seems likely the White House must have turned off the green light and turned on a red one when the deal was called off.

In the meantime, the American people had a revealing experience that told them a few things they needed to know.

They learned anew about the danger of impetuosity — leaping before looking. When the Tractors for Freedom Committee, headed by Milton Eisenhower, Walter Reuther and Eleanor Roosevelt, materialized out of an offhand remark by Fidel Castro, many Americans were shocked. They could not believe anyone of high position would blunder into a trap like this one.

They predicted that Castro would wring out of the proposition every drop of advantage, then discard it. They said he would turn it into a tangle of Marxist dialectics, to frustrate Americans unaccustomed to dialectics, then terminate the whole fruitless discussion in a way to leave his opponents looking and feeling silly.

They warned that if by some mischance the deal did go through and Castro got the tractors he would not live up to his end of the bargain.

THEY POINTED to a succession of well-meaning attempts by Americans to reach agreements with Communist-dominated countries and to the moral that Communist countries are not interested in reaching agreements when they have the advantage—only when they are at a disadvantage.

And they declared what to them seemed so obvious they wondered why everybody wasn't aware of it — that Castro had proposed, in effect, that the United States pay an indemnity for its role in the Cuban invasion fiasco.

All these things were said in the open by skeptics. Significantly, those who favored the deal never had much to say in its defense.

One other thing was thought more often than it was said — that President Kennedy, assuming he had instigated the deal, was showing the result of lack of training for the presidency, one of the world's toughest administrative jobs.

An executive, unlike a legislator, does not have the privilege of throwing things open for interminable discussion while he makes up his mind.

EXECUTIVES must reach their decisions privately, after weighing all the evidence and calculating all the consequences. Then they must act, remembering that their actions, unlike laws, cannot be repealed if they turn out badly.

President Kennedy acted on a bum steer in the Cuban invasion. It looks as if he had another bum steer in the tractors-for-prisoners deal.

Everybody can breathe easier now that the committee has been disbanded and Castro has been told the United States has no intention of paying $28 million or merely $28 as indemnity in any shape, or form, public, private, or otherwise.

If Castro decides to kill the 1,197 invasion prisoners, all of them his own countrymen, that might turn out to be the end of Castro.

Segregation Not A Local Problem

We do not know what caused Hagerstown, Md., to get out the red carpet for Dr. William Fitzjohn, Negro diplomat from Sierra Leone, one of the new African republics. It could not have been an easy decision.

The carpet treatment was to make amends for an incident last March that gave the United States a black eye in its diplomatic relations with all the new African republics. Dr. Fitzjohn then was charged d'affaires in Washington for Sierra Leone, which was still a British colony. He was refused service in a restaurant near Hagerstown because of the color of his skin.

This incident and many others like it that have occurred in the United States point up a somber fact for citizens of this country, wherever they happen to live. Segregation is not a local problem.

When Negroes and other colored foreigners encounter race discrimination in Washington, they cannot be expected to overlook it because Washington happens to be more southern than northern in its views on race relations. All they can be expected to realize is that they have been victims of discrimination in the capital of the United States.

This is one of our nation's acute problems as it strives to show its good will to both new nations and older nations represented abroad by diplomats of the colored races. It is not restricted to Negroes, Chinese, Japanese, Indians and other brown and yellow people have encountered it.

Dr. Fitzjohn is the newly appointed ambassador of his country to the Court of St. James. When he goes to London, he is not likely to be rebuffed because of his color. London knows better after centuries of diplomatic contact. When he goes to Hagerstown in the future he is not likely to be rebuffed either. Even Washington is learning slowly and painfully that racial discrimination has no place in a nation striving to carry its responsibility as a world power.

This form of isolationism dies hard, but it is dying.

If the colored races are patient, the United States may learn while there is still time that most of the human beings in this interdependent world are not white.

Two Ways To Beat Polio

Disagreement between doctors about the Salk and Sabin methods of fighting polio is none of the public's concern. The doctors' difference of professional opinion erupted when the American Medical Association's house of delegates unanimously endorsed the Sabin vaccine.

Dr. Jonas A. Salk took exception to some of the claims made for the vaccine developed by his associate, Dr. Albert B. Sabin, and the squabble was on. It is a professional matter. The public respects both Drs. Salk and Sabin for their work. It believes both are sincere and it suspects both are right.

That is to say, both of the methods they have developed can immunize human beings against polio. It is possible that still other methods may come along to do the same thing. And it is more probable than ever that polio will be routed — that it will become as rare as smallpox became when vaccination became almost universal.

The public's only interest is to get rid of the disease. It is grateful to Dr. Salk for his work in the break-through that occurred six years ago. It is grateful to Dr. Sabin for his work in developing what promises to be a still more effectual method of immunization. The Sabin vaccine can be taken by mouth. It requires no use of a hypodermic needle. No professional skill is required to administer it. Persons treated with Sabin vaccine not only acquire immunity but cannot become passive carriers of polio, capable of infecting others, one weakness charged against Salk vaccine.

Widespread use of Salk vaccine has saved lives and averted the crippling of bodies. Its benefits will be felt for years to come. Dr. Salk believes, and many other doctors will agree with him, that his vaccine will continue to be the standby in the fight against polio even after the Sabin vaccine becomes universally available late this year or early next year.

The public benefit will be doubled, perhaps more than doubled, because Sabin vaccine is so easy to administer and promises to be even more effectual in mass usage than Salk vaccine. When both vaccines are easily available, anyone so inclined could take both and achieve dual immunity, so to speak.

Doctors may disagree professionally, but the public can agree. It has everything to gain. A few years ago it had no protection against polio at all. Now it has two paths to immunity.

The Once Over

Legal hassle indicates "My Fair Lady" has made so much money, it is almost in photo finish with DuPont, GM and General Electric in litigation.

So many law firms were involved in fight between producer, co-producer and authors that road companies of Bar Association could be sent out.

Arbitrators worked for a week going over scripts of testimony in which Herman Levin, producer, charged he was cut out of movie and TV rights. Imaginary script:

Judge: Let us proceed through this gold mine. Do I smell something burning?

Mr. Levin: Yes, that's Lerner, Loewe and CBS lighting cigars with $1,000 bills while I have to use $500 ones.

Judge: Is it true that $3.2 million profits from "My Fair Lady" have been made already and $10 million from the album.

Spectator: Only when money like that is involved can the theater provide a fight like this.

Judge: Mr. Levin do you make the novel claim that a Broadway producer can be outwitted by the authors?

Mr. Levin: I'm here to stop setting a precedent.

Judge: Why is this room so crowded with spectators?

Attendant: They are not spectators, they are the attorneys needed in a case this expensive.

Judge: It must be the "My-Fair-Lady" chapter of the Bar Association. I would like to ask Mr. Levin to explain his claim that CBS crossed him up.

Mr. Levin: It evidently thought it was doing another Western and that I was a lone cowboy.

Mr. Lerner: May I testify briefly so I can get back to counting my money?

Bailiff: Somebody is knocking on the door.

Judge: Its probably the ghost of George Bernard Shaw who wants to get into the act, too.

Lawyers for all the litigants (speaking at once): Could we have some appropriate background music for this case.

Judge: What song do you wish?

Lawyers: "The Rain In Spain Falls Mainly On the Plain Unless Upset By the Supreme Court."

ICC says that New Haven Road alone in U.S. made money on dining cars in last few years, through cutting out quality foods and luxury touch clung to by other roads. Maybe New Haven passengers are tied down in train delays so long they have to eat two or three meals over a short haul.

Still Making Itself Heard

The Price Of Liberty

By John N. Adams

On this Fourth of July 1961 we will consider ourselves patriotic if, before loading up the family car for a holiday jaunt, we have hung out the Stars and Stripes. Not many of us will remember to do that.

Few of us will give a thought to the Declaration of Independence or to the 56 brave signers who willingly risked loss of wealth, family and even life itself, to give us the freedoms we take for granted as our just birthright.

There used to be something about the Fourth of July that made it different from other holidays. It had to do with a document laboriously and painstakingly penned with a quill on a piece of parchment.

It begins: "When in the course of human events..." and ends: "And for the Support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes, and our sacred Honor."

It also had to do with a steeped brick State House on Chestnut St. in Philadelphia, where the Continental Congress was in session.

For long tiring days the delegates had wrangled over the document, carefully going over each word, each phrase, rewording here, revising there to make unmistakably clear the intent of the signers.

The document also had to do with a group of 56 grim but heroic men, each faced with the most difficult decision of his life.

THE DECISION was especially difficult for the Quakers and Moravians, whose religious belief forbade them to take up arms, yet whose love of country was a strong as that of any of the others.

There were men of wealth like Charles Carroll of Maryland, John Hancock of Massachusetts and Robert Morris of Pennsylvania. With a stroke of the quill they knew they might well become paupers.

Sam Huntington of Connecticut knew he would lose even more. He was a justice of the Supreme Court and a member of the Governor's Council—by appointment from King George III of England.

Francis Lewis of New York saw his home pillaged and burned, his wife captured and cast into prison.

Richard Stockton of New Jersey signed and died in poverty because the English seized his property.

Some of the biggest financial backers of the Revolution lost every cent they had.

Carter Braxton of Virginia, richest man of them all, died in debt.

John Hart, a New Jersey farmer was driven from his dying wife's side and his 13 children scattered when the Hessian soldiers reached his farm a few months after he had signed.

As Lewis Morris was about to sign, he received word that the enemy was at the gates of his Long Island home but his property would be spared if he would withhold his vote for liberty. "There are plenty of homes but only one country," he answered and signed.

Another signatory, Thomas Nelson, Jr., mortgaged his estates and raised $2 million to help finance the fighting in Virginia. Although he sacrificed his entire fortune, he was never reimbursed and died penniless.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED to the spirit of these signers and other heroes like Henry Clay, Paul Revere, George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Franklin, Patrick Henry and many others? These men and all the other Founding Fathers agreed with all their hearts with Patrick Henry's words: "Give me liberty or give me death."

Has their spirit been lost in the welter of federal spending sprees that promise something for everybody: Federal highways, federal school aid, farm relief, social security and the multitude of other relief programs?

Has our freedom disappeared in statistics on holiday traffic fatalities, overtime pay for union members at our missile bases, union demands for higher and higher pay for less and less production?

Has our patriotism perished in our preoccupation with prestige while we sacrifice principle? Do we take our liberty and privilege too much for granted? Maybe the Fourth of July has been engulfed in a nationwide boredom of people who don't even remove their hats to honor a flag whose red was once the blood of men who died that their children might have an Independence Day to celebrate.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY'S admonition at the start of his administration—"to ask yourself not what your country can do for you but what can you do for your country" takes recognition of the nation's attitude that liberty is an old-fashioned word: that the spirit of our forefathers has become obsolete.

Too often the man in the street prefers peace at any price short of war and looks at each trouble spot in the world—Cuba, Korea, Laos, Africa—not in terms of tyranny, justice or liberty but in the spirit that any trouble is bad because it might spread and eventually hit him.

In the past, when the chips were down, Americans have shown they can rise to an emergency. They did it in World War I, World War II and Korea.

Let's hope on this Fourth of July that beneath the surface of superficiality the Spirit of '76 burns as fiercely as it did in the hearts of the Founding Fathers.

Happy Fifth

By Truman Twill

One of the recollections I can dredge up at will is about an automobile ride in a roundabout connection with the Fourth of July.

The automobile was one of Mr. Henry Ford's touring cars — the kind they had in mind when they joked about one-man tops.

It was the pride of my Cousin Paul, who had talked his father into buying it, knowing the old man never would get the hang of driving it.

Cousin Paul had a project in mind involving a dish named Florence, who lived in my home town. The big day was the third of July.

I was spending the summer with him and his parents as a paying house guest — an arrangement that had begun when I was very young and was still in effect though I, too, was beginning to notice dishes like Florence.

Cousin Paul, six years older, had been noticing them for some time. He was at that time a fledgling collegian, which would have put me in the 7th grade or thereabouts.

The Florentine project was scheduled to get under way in the early afternoon of July 3, a Sunday. I remember the Fourth of July came on Monday. Cousin Paul took me to my house in time for dinner and then turned his attention to Florence.

He did not show up again until midnight, when we took off for his house 17 miles away, quite an after-dark journey in that early period of automobiling. He had installed electric lights on the Ford, but they brightened and dimmed according to the speed of the engine, which made uphill and downhill driving a tingling adventure.

But it was a beautiful midsummer night, and to start the trip right Cousin Paul and I decided to light up cigars. It was not his first, but it was my first, and I took my grownup role seriously, puffing with gusto — uphill and downhill.

I can remember now how the uphill and downhill suddenly grew worse. Also the curves grew sharper. I mentioned these aberrations to Cousin Paul and wondered if he might be on a detour. He assured me we were on the main road and continued to manipulate the Ford, building up enough downhill momentum to carry the car uphill.

When we got to Cousin Paul's house, his passenger was not long for this world. There was cataclysmic sickness on alighting from the Ford. There was lurching, also spinning and a miasmatic revulsion against a sickening and nauseating universe, then, with Cousin Paul's help, a heavenly sinking into deep sleep.

There wasn't anything to celebrate on the Fourth of July. Independence had shown itself to be an empty shell.

There was a great fussing and stirring over little Twillis, who always had been a sickly kid but goodness gracious Matilda never had been like this before. If there had been a telephone on the place, my parents would have been called. There wasn't, and by the Fifth of July the world was good again.

To this day, I still prefer the Fifth of July. It's a wonderful day.

Gems Of Thought

PROPHECY

What adds to the confusion in this space age is that prophecy gets to be history before it becomes current news.

—Herbert Bayard Swope, Jr.

There are moments when at the touch of memory the past comes forth like a pageant and the present is prophetic.

—Mary Baker Eddy

We never know enough about the infinitely complex circumstances of any past event in prophecy the future by analogy.

—G. M. Trevelyan

I always avoid prophesying beforehand, because it is much better policy to prophesy after the event has already taken place.

—Winston Churchill

He that knows nothing of it may by chance be a prophet, while the wisest that is may happen to miss.

—Benjamin Franklin

Mankind, which is always in rebellion against the prophets, nevertheless ends by applauding them heartily.

Reeves' Case Stirs Washington Comment

Khrushchev and Kuwait may be in the headlines, but the talk of the town in Washington is the damage done to the prestige of the Kennedy administration by the case of Frank B. Reeves. He was nominated on June 21 by the President to be one of the three commissioners who govern the District of Columbia.

After some startling revelations during a Senate hearing, the nomination was withdrawn a few days ago by the President. This was done ostensibly at the request of the appointee, but it turns out that White House staff members initiated the step. Now the question is whether he is to remain as a member of the Democratic National Committee representing the District of Columbia.

The episode has little significance from the standpoint of racial controversy. For, while Frank Reeves is a Negro, it is certain that the man to be nominated in his place as district commissioner also will be a Negro.

The real significance of the whole affair is the proved incompetence of the President's staff in checking up in advance on appointees, and the damage done to the Negro community itself for if ever there was an occasion to select the best-qualified Negro for a public post, it was when the President had before him the task of filling the vacancy on the district Board of Commissioners.

There are many Negroes in Washington—lawyers and businessmen—who could do an efficient job in this post. Reeves got the appointment as a political reward for services rendered. He has been for a year now the Democratic national committeeman for the district, and, without resigning that post, has been serving as a paid assistant on President Kennedy's staff at the White House.

What happened in checking on the qualifications of the prospective commissioner? The customary loyalty checks were made and were satisfactory, but nobody at the White House examined court records on tax liens.

THE REPUBLICANS learned of irregularities in the Reeves' tax payments, and raised a fuss before the Senate committee.

Evidence was brought forth there showing that over the last 10 years the nominee had not regularly paid his income taxes on time, and that several tax liens had been filed in the past by the federal government, as well as by the District of Columbia tax office, to enforce collection.

There were delays, too, in filing returns. His 1952 return, for example, was not filed until 1956, while his 1960 return, due on April 15, was not put in the mails until June 27—after the question of its filing had been raised in the Senate hearing.

The Reeves' explanation is that he was unable to keep up his earnings to pay his taxes because he spent so much time away from his law office working at his own expense with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He was at one time assistant counsel to the national group. But apart from tax matters, if the Reeves nomination had not been withdrawn, a "conflict of interest" charge would have been made by the Republicans because of his purchase of a $47,500 house in February of this year with a loan allegedly made by a prominent liquor dealer in Washington. It so happens that the new district commissioner will have supervision over the alcoholic beverage Control Board.

NO CHARGES of any criminal nature are involved but the question of whether the appointee is careless and whether he could handle efficiently the duties of a district commissioner—which are directly related to the collection of all local taxes—bothered some of the senators who were to vote on whether to confirm or reject the nomination.

Certainly the White House staff should have been more alert in dealing with the whole business. Doubtless a lesson has been learned which will help in checking up on other appointees.

But there is a broader issue involved which the incident accentuates. More than 750,000 people live in the District of Columbia. They have no voice at all in selecting their Board of Commissioners or the presiding member of the commission who is the equivalent of a mayor.

Despite all the hullabaloo about "civil rights" elsewhere, the people in the District of Columbia are not permitted to vote their choice of city officials. A constitutional amendment has just been ratified which gives the citizens of the District of Columbia a chance to vote in 1964 and thereafter for president and vice president of the United States, but the privilege of voting for local officers continues to be denied.

Old And New

Despite their romantic trappings, the gondoliers of Venice are practical fellows.

They belong to a guild or co-operative association of individuals seeking to preserve tradition as well as to protect personal interests. Only sons of gondoliers are eligible.

In a recent strike against growing fleets of motorboats on the canals, the gondoliers strongly protested the turbulence caused by their speedier rivals.

Both traditionalists and moderns had their innings soon after, when Britain's Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip visited Venice. The royal couple rode first in a motor launch, then in a gondola named Margaret for the queen's sister, who had used it 10 years before.

The gondola holds an honored place in the life of a city that clings tenaciously to the atmosphere of the past.

Settled 1,500 years ago, the cluster of islands that became "Queen of the Adriatic" took naturally to an amphibian existence.

Though the gondola is not quite as old as the city, a similar vessel was used in Venice as early as the 11th century. Slipping silently under medieval bridges, past turreted palaces and churches, the long, slim, high - prowed boat is still the trademark of the metropolis that Dickens called "a strange dream upon the water."

The spadefoot toad of North America breeds in temporary pools created by heavy rains. The tiny tad eggs may hatch in a day and a half.

Rise And Fall

In Iran, where a new premier recently took office, kings and governments have risen and fallen for 2,500 turbulent years.

In the 6th century B.C., Persia, as Iran was then called, ruled a huge empire stretching from Egypt to India, the National Geographic Society says.

A secret police system known as "The Eyes and Ears of the King" kept close check on even the most distant provincial governors. The monarch was protected by the "Immortals," a personal bodyguard that always numbered 10,000.

Beginning with Alexander the Great in 333 B.C., however, Persia was subjected to a series of invaders. Waves of Arabs, Turks, Mongols, Tartars and Afghans overran the West Asian nation. Persia's borders shrank, but it survived.

Dix Speaks To Rotary

Publisher Praises U. N. For New Quiet In Congo

Reporting on a visit to Africa this spring with a group of nine journalists, an Ohio newspaper publisher told the Rotary Club Monday he feels the United Nations has done "a tremendous job" in restoring order to the chaotic Republic of Congo.

Robert C. Dix, publisher of the Ravenna-Kent Record-Courier, said a form of government that will work should come out of a series of conferences between Congo officials. It will be an outstanding example of the U.N.'s work in the strife-torn republic that was only one-year old Friday, he said.

Dix and the group of journalists toured the Republic of Congo for a first-hand look at results of the severe civil strife that marked the first days of independence of the former Belgian colony.

The editor and publisher interviewed Joseph Kasavubu, Congolese chief of state, and Dr. Albert Schweitzer, 1952 Nobel peace prize winner and famed "jungle doctor."

DIX CITED three primary reasons to be considered as responsible for Africa's civil strife that drew worldwide attention during tribal riots last year.

Heading the list is its size, Dix said, pointing out the continent is 4,000 miles long, 4,000 miles wide and big enough to contain three countries the size of the United States and another a third the size of Europe.

"There also is a tremendous lack of population — only 250 million people in such a great area," Dix said.

He cited the continent's tremendous wealth, with the Republic of Congo alone the site of 80 percent of the world's cobalt supply, 60 percent of its uranium deposits and also rich in gold, oil and other minerals.

"And the dark man is awakening, beginning to take heed, and trying to run his own affairs under a trying situation that is all happening at one time before a background of East-West conflict," Dix said.

"BUT TO understand the Congo, you have to know its history," Dix continued.

Dix told the club that the Congo story started with the mission of Henry M. Stanley into equatorial Africa to find Dr. David Livingstone, presumed lost. After finding the British missionary, Stanley explored the Congo basin and realized what a great and rich area it is, Dix continued.

Finding no interest at all in England for developing the area, Stanley turned to Leopold II, king of the Belgians, who became interested and took over the Congo area as a "private ranch."

However, King Leopold's ruthless exploitation of native laborers brought international criticism and led to the granting of a colonial charter in 1908, under which state became a Belgian colony.

"WHEN BELGIUM took over, there followed conversely a great development of a great land," Dix said. "The Belgians started a humane and business-like development of the Congo, like a great corporation."

Up until the last decade, the Congolese were asleep to political ideas, but then they realized they might be independent like other African countries," Dix said.

Belgian and Congolese leaders agreed that the Congo would become independent June 30, 1960.

Patrice Lumumba was appointed premier by the Belgian resident minister after his party won 35 of 137 seats in the National Assembly, lower House of Parliament. Kasavubu was elected chief of state.

As Lumumba and Kasavubu could not agree on authority, the new nation soon was torn by widespread violence and pillage by Congolese army troops and others.

BELGIUM SENT in troops, the U. N. later sent troops, and partial order was restored.

"The U. N. has done a tremendous job in a country that had come to a complete standstill, with nothing working — not even the post offices," Dix declared.

"In less than a year, the U. N. has done a fine job of training people to run their own country. It doesn't sound like much, but there were only 12 college graduates in the Congo," Dix said.

Conferences called by Kasavubu should start the leaders on their way to a form of government that will work, Dix said.

"If it does work, it will be an outstanding example of U. N. work," he added.

Moise Tshombe, president of the secessionist Congolese province of Katanga, richest of the six provinces, is attending, Dix pointed out.

Dix, who has traveled in every country of the world except Red China and southern parts of Australia, gave personal observations of his interview with Kasavubu.

Dix and a companion spent a day during the visit chatting with Dr. Schweitzer, whom he called "one of the great minds of the world."

"It was an emotional experience that I will never have again," Dix said of talking with the 86-year-old humanitarian.

DIX TOURED Dr. Schweitzer's hospital in the jungle and also visited a leper colony which had 200 patients. Dr. Schweitzer, a personal friend of the late Albert Einstein, said the noted mathematician told him before his death that "they will use the bomb, to destroy civilization," referring to the atomic bomb which Einstein helped create.

In concluding, Dix commented: "Keep your eyes on Africa — it is wealthy and big and will be one of the great areas of the world."

Dix flew here from the Ravenna area, landing his plane at Heron's Airport near Pughstown. He was introduced by C. V. Hughes, program chairman, and business manager of the Review.

Dr. R. Jay Kinsey became president, succeeding George Hargrave. The retiring president was presented with a past president's pin by Dr. Kinsey.

State, Canton Set Investigations Of Payroll Cheating

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—A three-man team of examiners has been ordered here by State Auditor James A. Rhodes to investigate an alleged payroll cheating incident in the City Street Department.

One employee already has been fired and others are believed to be involved, it was reported.

Elmer Zook, supervisor of the Akron district of The Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices, will be in charge of the investigation, Rhodes said.

Mayor Charles L. Babcock said he also would conduct his own investigation.

The alleged payroll cheating was reported to City Solicitor Harold E. DeHoff Saturday by Wilson J. Myers, whose resignation as service director is effective at midnight Tuesday.

DeHoff said he was told a city employee also had been working at an industrial plant here, apparently leaving his city job early to report at the plant and having a fellow employee punch his time card for him. DeHoff said the employee reportedly had received $200 illegally from the city since last May 15.

The solicitor said he also was told the employee received his city pay while on sick leave although he was working eight-hour shifts at the industrial plant while on leave.

Bringing Up A Family

Development Revealed By Questions

Yesterday we noted that the baby begins to think and reason much earlier than is generally supposed. He reveals his thinking powers by what he does, by his remarks and questions.

I have dug up some questions by our oldest child which I recorded during his first, second, third and fourth years. Each question was recorded on the day it was asked. Always his mother and I tried to answer his questions as well as we could. Now a university professor, he also writes regularly for a children's magazine on "Things you have wondered about."

QUESTIONS
(317th day) Looked at coveted but forbidden books on the table, then at mother, but made no attempt to take the books. The look was a question.
(523) Mamma! (Where is Mamma?) After she had been absent about three hours.
(856) When told he could take his baby sister out he asked, "Choo, choo?" "Gee up?" (To see the engines, to see the horses?)
(1010) Who made the pond? I guess (guess) Papa did. Will it rain on the fish in the pond?
(1022) What that? (Asked 41 times of different things.) Going to mail that letter? What is a skin? What are you talking about? Who put the tail on the fish?
(1035) What day this?

(1036) WHERE bought that engine, Mamma? Where milk come from? Where sugar come from? Who that go to? (Of a letter.)
(1038) What did Daddy mean? (After I had spelled a word in secret.)
(1048) Wants to know names of parts of familiar objects.

(1286) How does it get cold in the house?
(1296) Why does it get night?
(1301) What is butter made of?
(1358) On learning that the leaves would soon come out again, he wanted to know why they went in.
(1372) When his mother referred to an experience when she was a little girl, he wanted to know where he was then. What makes the iron slide 'down the board?

(1372) WHY did not Mr. W. get some boys for children? (He had three girls.)
(1372) How those wrinkles get in your brow?
(1415) Where is God? Is there any one with him? Do they move around? What does God walk on?
(1419) How did the strawberries get red?
(1424) What does the water do to the fire? How does the rain get to the sky?

To appreciate and understand your baby and young child, you might record his questions and then read them later to observe his gradual development in thinking.

My bulletins, "Letting Baby and Tot Learn" and "Answering Child's Questions About Sex," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Many, Many Things

What Is An American?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The free-born American today celebrates nearly two centuries of uninterrupted independence.

He is proud of his own ideals and feels his own political system is the best ever invented—views not shared by all the rest of earth's inhabitants.

Just what kind of a person is an American, and what does his country stand for? Over the years he has received just about as many brickbats as bouquets, but has managed to survive both blame and praise.

Here are some memorable estimates of him and his ways: "I am willing to love all mankind except an American. They are a race of convicts and ought to be thankful for anything we allow them short of hanging," Samuel Johnson, 1775.

"... knavery seems to be so much the striking feature of its (America's) inhabitants that it may not in the end be an evil that they will become aliens to this kingdom,"—George III of England, 1782.

"All the men in America make money their pursuit,"—Richard Parkinson, 1805.

"Two selfish gods; pleasure and gain, enslave the Americans,"—William Faux, 1823.

"One of the most amiable features in the character of American society is this: that men never boast of their riches, and never disguise their poverty,"—William Cobbett, 1829.

"In American an hour is 40 minutes,"—German proverb.

"The Americans, like the English, probably make love worse than any other race,"—Walt Whitman, 1856.

"The American is nomadic in religion, in ideas, in morals,"—J.R. Lowell, 1864.

"Just what is it that America stands for? If she stands for one thing more than another it is for the sovereignty of self-governing people,"—Woodrow Wilson, 1916.

"God will save the good American, and seat him at his right-hand on the golden throne,"—Theodore Dreiser, 1917.

"America is the only place where man is full-grown!"—O.W. Holmes.

"Most Americans are born drunk... They have a sort of permanent intoxication from within, a sort of invisible champagne... Americans do not need to drink to inspire them to do anything,"—G. K. Chesterton, 1931.

"America is one long expectation,"—Oscar Wilde, 1882.

"... woman governs America because America is a land of boys who refuse to grow up,"—Salvador de Madariaga.

"America means opportunity, freedom, power,"—Emerson.

"God looks after drunks, children and Americans,"—an "old saying" quoted by James Truslow Adams, 1934.

35 Railroads Eye New 'Coal Train'

CLEVELAND (AP) — A new kind of freight train designed to cut the cost of moving coal, ore and other bulk commodities will be studied by 35 railroads, J. D. Henry, chairman of the Railroad Community Service Committee of Cleveland, reported Monday.

He said the train would be an integrated unit with semi-permanent couplings and motive power at both ends as well as throughout the train.

A committee of railroad executives has retained a New York consulting engineering firm to make a study of the proposed train, Henry said, adding:

"... We expect to be able to achieve about 25,000 tons of a single commodity per trainload, double our present capacity, with a specially designed integral train with the motive power built in.

"It will operate between distant points at high speed, holding promise of overall terminal-to-terminal speed unobtainable by any other form of bulk commodity transportation. With special loading and unloading facilities, we will slash costs at the same time."

NEW CUMBERLAND — Leonard Watson's service station was burglarized of a dozen packages of cigarettes in an entry sometime between 10 p.m. Sunday and 9 a.m. Monday.

Entry was gained by breaking a side window. A soft drink machine and cigarette machine were rifled, but the machines were emptied of coins the night before by the owner.

An employee reported the entry to West Virginia State Police in Weirton when he opened the station at 9:05 a.m. Monday. Trooper Donald L. Lake investigated.

Township Gets Grant

LISBON — Columbiana County Commissioner made a $300 road maintenance grant to Salem Township trustees Monday and approved payments to East Liverpool and Wellsburg for stray dogs destroyed in June. East Liverpool collected $37 for 74 strays and Wellsburg was paid $45 for 90.

Bonnie Lee Lohr Marries Dennis Johnson At Lisbon

Miss Bonnie Lee Lohr and Pfc. Dennis C. Johnson pledged their marriage vows Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in St. George's Catholic Church of Lisbon.

Fr. William H. Hohman officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with ferns and gladioli and enhanced with twin vases of white gladioli and daisies. Tapers were alite in two seven-branch candelabra.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foster J. Lohr of Lisbon R. D. 3 and the bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Grace Johnson of Sherman St., Lisbon, and the late Edmund C. Johnson.

At the organ was Miss Deborah Lodge. She played "Mother at Your Feet is Kneeling" while the bride placed a bouquet before the Blessed Virgin and "Evening Prayer" was played softly while wedding vows were said.

Lohr escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her ballerina length gown was fashioned of taffeta. It was styled in princess lines, brief sleeves and a scooped neckline outlined with chantilly lace in scallops. The gently flared skirt had an apron effect overlay of lace and a cabbage rose of self material held her billowing veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, white daisies and trailing ivy. In keeping with traditions, she carried a handkerchief crocheted in "lovers lace" which she had borrowed.

Miss Jance Dreussi of East Liverpool was maid of honor. She wore a gown of lilac chiffon featuring contrasting cummerbund and floating panels with large bows accenting the back. Her head dress was a matching Dior bow with a circular veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and lilac pompons with ivy.

Sp. 4C Michael Zarawick, stationed at Ft. Knox, Ky., served as best man and William Robinson and Lany Johnson, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The bride's mother was attired in a lavender blue silk dress with accessories of the same color and the bridegroom's mother wore a pastel green satin ensemble with matching green and white accessories. Corsages of white cymbidium orchids complemented their attire.

Mrs. Julia Peruchetti, grandmother of the bride, chose a navy blue and white print dress with white accessories and her corsage was a white rose. The bride chose a white summer dress with turquoise and white accessories.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are son High School. Mrs. Johnson is employed by the Columbiana County Public Health League and he is serving with the Army at Ft. Knox.

Upon their return from their wedding trip, the bride will reside temporarily with her parents. A dinner party was held at the bride's home Friday evening preceding the rehearsal. Members of the wedding party were given gifts. Mrs. Steve Chengelis was the assistant hostess for the rehearsal party.

Ford Heads American's All-Star Pitchers

By BOB HOOBING

Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Whitey Ford heads the pitchers on the 1961 American League All-Star Baseball squad, which runs the gamut from indestructible Yogi Berra to the lone rookie Dick Howser.

Ford, the sizzling New York Yankee southpaw with an All-Star score to settle, along with Detroit's Frank Lary and Jim Bunning are the dominant mound figures selected Monday by Manager Paul Richards for the first game, July 11, at San Francisco.

American League President Joe Cronin released the list of the entire 25-man delegation which will try to stem the recent National League tide that has swept to victory in seven of the last 11 games, including both played in 1960.

Ford (14-2 record, 108 strikeouts) is expected to be Richards' choice to open the game with the other starters already named: First baseman Norm Cash, Detroit; second baseman Johnny Temple, Cleveland; shortstop Tony Kubek, New York; third baseman Brooks Robinson, Baltimore; outfielders Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, New York, and Rocky Colavito, Detroit, and catcher John Romano, Cleveland.

Making his seventh All-Star appearance, Ford wants to atone for the fact he is tied for the lead in two undesirable categories — most defeats (2) and most runs surrendered in one game (5).

Berra is the elder statesman of the squad, extending his league record to 15 consecutive games, though this will mark the first time the stubby Yankee slugger will not appear as a catcher.

Teammate Elston Howard will be ready to spell Romano behind the plate.

Yogi, Al Kaline of Detroit and Baltimore's Jackie Brandt complete the outfield group.

The slick-fielding, base-stealing Howser from Kansas City is the only rookie, but the shortstop is joined by five other players making their debuts. They are starter Cash and Romano, plus Brandt and pitchers Jim Perry of Cleveland and Mike Fornieles of Boston.

Detroit and New York battling neck and neck for the junior circuit lead, dominate the squad with 11 representatives between them.

Lary (11-4) and Bunning (7-6) give the Americans a pair of tough right-handers. Bunning is the only member of the nine-man mound corps to hold a previous All-Star victory. He got the decision in the 6-5 triumph of 1957. Richards selected crafty knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm from his own staff as one of the pitchers, along with Chicago lefty Billy Pierce, Washington's Dick Donovan and fireman Ryne Duren of the Los Angeles Angels.

Like Temple, Wilhelm has played for the Nationals in this classic, too.

Richards also has tabbed his own first baseman, Jim Gentile, currently runs-batted-in king of both leagues, for infield duty along with power-hitter Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota, Howser and Chicago's veteran Nellie Fox.

Indians Net $55,000 On Aspromonte Deal

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Cleveland Indians were paid $75,000 by the Los Angeles Angels for infielder Ken Aspromonte, 28, last Dec. 14.

The Indians got him back Monday for $20,000.

Cleveland reclaimed Aspromonte on waivers. The Angels had picked him last winter from players offered by the existing eight American League clubs to new franchises at Los Angeles and Washington.

Aspromonte appeared in 66 games with the Angels this year. He batted .224. Last season, with Washington and Cleveland, he averaged .288 at the plate.

McKinley Of U. S. Drives To Wimbledon Semi-Finals

By JOHN FARROW

Associated Press Sports Writer
WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—

Charles (Chuck) McKinley, 20, the chunky American with the go-for-broke style, Monday knocked out Bobby Wilson of Britain and moved into the semifinals of the Wimbledon Lawn Tennis Championship. He was joined by a Briton, an Australian and an Indian.

The college freshman from St. Louis defeated Wilson, conqueror of defending champion and top-seeded Neale Fraser of Australia, with an explosive exhibition 6-4, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

He will meet the new British star Mike Sangster, 20, in the Wednesday semifinals. Sangster routed Ivo Pimentel of Venezuela 6-2, 6-2, 6-4, with his booming drive and volley game.

Ramanathan Krishnan, the Indian with the delicate touch, pulled off the day's big upset by defeating Roy Emerson of Australia 6-1, 6-4, 6-4. Rod Laver, Australia's second-seeded star, knocked out Luis Ayala of Chile 6-1, 6-3, 6-2. Krishnan and Laver will meet in the other semifinal.

The fiery McKinley, still on probation in the United States for a racket-tossing incident last year in Australia, awed the overflow crowd with his tearaway tactics — tactics that had him chasing every shot and trying to make it a thunderbolt of a winner.

That's the way the 5-foot-8-inch McKinley played all last week. He seemed to want to hit the cover off every ball. Rarely has he played a safe shot—and never has he played safe.

A stroke player like Wilson whose backhand on his day is a treat to watch and who relies on placements rather than power, should have been able to give McKinley the run-around.

Wilson tried. But McKinley, a ball of fire and energy, never once gave up—even if Wilson's placement or volley left him struggling on the opposite side of the court. The crowd loved it.

Laver is seeded No. 2. Krishnan No. 7, McKinley No. 8. Sangster was overlooked.

Sangster is the first Briton to reach the semifinals of Wimbledon since Bunny Austin did it in 1938. He is the son of a head porter in a hotel on the South Coast of England.

Tuesday, the women's singles quarter-finals will be decided. The only American survivor, Karen Hantze of Chula Vista, Calif., will play Rene Schuurman of South Africa.

Other quarter-finals are: Margaret Smith, Australia, vs. Christine Truman, Britain; Angela Mortimer, Britain, vs. Mrs. Vera Sukova, Czechoslovakia, and Yola Ramirez, Mexico, vs. Sandra Reynolds, South Africa.

Burke First In Flint Open

By JERRY GREEN

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Jackie Burke, using an ancient wooden shaft putter with pinpoint accuracy, beat Billy Casper and Johnny Pott by three strokes Monday in an 18-hole playoff for the Flint Open championship.

The stocky Burke, winless for two years, conquered wind-whipped Warwick Hills with a one-under-par 36-35-71.

A sensational 63-foot putt for a birdie on par 3 No. 11 put away the $9,000 victory for Burke.

Casper, troubled with his short putts, fired a 37-37-74 on the 7, 280-yard par 36-36-72 course.

Pott, erratic throughout, also shot a 37-37-74.

The three had tied at four-under par 284 Sunday after 72 holes.

It was a comeback victory for Michaels, 4 Others

Babe Didn't Actually Point

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — Legend has made it so, but Southern Association President Hal Trotten says Babe Ruth didn't really point to center field before he hit that homer off Chicago's Charlie Root in 1932.

Totten, a former sportscaster, was "fortunate enough to be broadcasting that game," and says "it wasn't a pointed homer at all. Later, I asked him if he really did point."

"I certainly did nothing of the kind," Babe told me then. "I'd have been a damn fool to do that. If I had, that Charlie Root would have stuck that ball right in my ear, and I don't mean maybe."

"What actually happened was this (said Ruth): You'll remember there was a lot of pretty sharp jockeying from both benches during that series, and those Cubs were really on me. I had two strikes on me. That really brought a blast from the Cub bench."

"I'd been jockeying right back. So when they gave it to me, I held up my hand and stuck one finger in the air and yelled: 'I only need one hit, and I still got that comin'.'"

"When I held up that finger, I did it so they could see it. I suppose it looked like I was pointing to center field — well, I guess it just made a good story. They can call me all sorts of a fool, but I'm not that silly."

as Casper birdied the same hole. Burke went on to birdie par 5 No. 13 and par 4 No. 14.

"But I didn't feel I had it in the bag until I got a par on 15," Burke said.

Burke's second shot on that hole bounced through a sand trap and he chipped close to the pin and sank the putt.

Casper was reaching the greens in good fashion, but had difficulty with his putting from close in.

Casper had only one birdie while having three bogies.

Pott had two birdies and three bogies on his first five holes before settling down. He then toured the back nine with one birdie and two bogies, frequently having to play out of traps.

Casper and Pott each collected $3,800 as runners-up.

Visited To Throw Blocks For Bellino Once Again

By FRANK ECK

AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor
SMITHTOWN, N. Y. (AP) — It seems strange that Frank Visted should be chosen as one of the centers for the College All-Star team that meets the Philadelphia Eagles in Chicago's Soldier Field on Friday, Aug. 4.

But strange things have been happening to the former Navy center ever since the big football hero of this Long Island town first sought an appointment to the U. S. Naval Academy.

He was told in 1956 to play another year of football and put on some weight. He now stands 6-foot-3 with a 220-pound playing weight.

Strange, too, is the fact that Navy's All-America halfback, Joe Bellino, should be the only other athlete from Annapolis to play in the Chicago game. They are pals even though you wouldn't think so by the record.

It was Bellino who stood in Visted's way during his baseball days at Navy. Yet, it was Visted who opened holes and blocked on many occasion for Bellino last fall.

"I was a fullback and line-backer," Visted recalls, "but the first day out for practice at Stony Brook School the coach said 'You're a center now.' It was the first time I ever played the line."

"Then when I went out for Navy baseball as a Plebe I was a first baseman and went to catching. Then Bellino returned and I couldn't get back, not even to first base. So I became a bullpen catcher for Navy for two years." Visted played a lot of football for Navy last season for he was a rarity, a two-way man. He played 59½ minutes in the Notre Dame game.

"It would have been 60 minutes," offers Visted, "but the other center made a mistake and entered the game midway in the second quarter. I missed one play and went back in."

Visted had his nose broken five times playing football but it hasn't altered the fine features of the 24-year-old athlete who may make the Navy his career because they've been good to him at Annapolis.

He and Bellino will be in the Naval Academy athletic department for the next six months. When not scouting they will assist in coaching. Visted with the line-men and Bellino with the new quarterbacks.

About a recent nose operation, Visted says: "Now I can breathe through both nostrils."

Navy will be minus experience, this fall, Visted believes. "We've lost nine of the first 11 and most of the reserves," he says. "And you just can't replace a Joe Bellino. He's the greatest football player I've ever seen. He needs very little blocking, he's that good."

And if Bellino goes well against the Eagles, champions of the National Football League, those who view the game may see Visted as a big factor. For when Bellino is in the game you're bound to find the handsome Viking from Smithtown, rated by Navy Coach Wayne Hardin as the best center in the east the last two years.

Britain Picks 4 Stars In Wightman Defense

WIMBLEDON (AP) — Britain Monday named its four top tennis players to defend the Wightman Cup against the United States at Saddle and Cycle Club in Chicago Aug. 19-20.

Fourth-ranked Deirdre Catt, 21, won a place on the team along with Christine Truman, Ann Haydon and Angela Mortimer.

The four girls will fly to the United States Aug. 11 to try to keep the trophy won by Britain at Wimbledon last year.

Holiday

covered a four-day weekend with favorable outing weather over much of the nation.

Last year, the Independence Day holiday was a three-day affair, and the accident death count was 442 in traffic, 34 in boating accidents, 126 drownings in non-boating accidents, and 110 miscellaneous accident fatalities—a total of 712. The record over-all accident toll for an Independence Day holiday was 805 during the three-day period of 1955.

The largest holiday death toll from all types of accidents was 884—set during the four-day Christmas period of 1956.

Traffic Deaths Slow Across Ohio Monday

Traffic Boating Drownings Miscellaneous Total

By The Associated Press COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The count of Ohio holiday fatalities rose rapidly all during Saturday and Sunday, and into early Monday, reaching 32 as traffic took 18 lives, a boating mishap one, drownings 7 and miscellaneous accidents 6 since 5 p.m. Friday.

Then came a lull. The break Monday, which safety officials hoped wouldn't prove just a "time out" before renewal of the slaughter on Independence Day, could probably be attributed to:

(1) Many people putting in a day at the office or factory before renewing leisure pursuits on the Fourth;

(2) Most of those who made long trips for an extended Friday evening to Tuesday night weekend being at their destinations—if they survived Saturday and Sunday's heavy traffic.

It was entirely possible that the holiday itself was little to blame for the toll through Monday. It was one of the new real summer weekends of the year, weatherwise, and lots of motoring and swimming were to have been expected simply for that reason.

In fact, many of the victims met death right in and around their home communities.

As of Monday night, it appeared touch-and-go whether the state

Traffic

Details of the collision and the extent of the former high school and college football star's injuries had not been received here Monday night. His parents left yesterday afternoon to be at his bedside in Bedford.

It was reported unofficially the car carrying the Navy man was involved in a collision while turning off the Pennsylvania Turnpike at Bedford. The family was advised of the crash in a telegram received from hospital authorities Sunday night asking for permission to perform surgery on their son.

The four others in the car, all residents of the Columbus area, also were hospitalized with injuries. They had been on brief leaves and were returning to the Virginia base.

Novelist Mourned

Officials Cancel Inquest Into Hemingway's Death

KETCHUM, Idaho (AP) — Authorities said Monday Ernest Hemingway died of "a self-inflicted gunshot wound in the head," but they left open the question of whether it was accidental, or suicide.

They said there will be no inquest. The 61-year-old author died Sunday.

The writer's wife, who heard a shot, found him dead about 7:30 a.m. Sunday. He was lying in his pajamas near the living room of the secluded home.

There was a double-barrel shotgun by his side.

Asked whether the death certificate wording means the death was accidental or suicide, V.K. Jeppesen, Blaine County prosecuting attorney, said: "We are making no determination."

Meanwhile a sad migration of family and friends began arriving Monday to mourn Hemingway.

Funeral services were tentatively set for Friday, but a family spokesman said the rites, which will be private, may be as early as Wednesday. He said it all depended upon the arrival of a son, Patrick, thought to be on a safari in Africa.

Another report indicated the services will be a simple affair at graveside in the Ketchum Cemetery, rather than, as originally thought, in Our Lady of the Snows Catholic Church.

Mrs. Hemingway, who spent much of their marriage protecting Hemingway from an adoring public, issued a brief statement terming the death accidental.

She refused to accept visitors until midmorning Monday.

Among those arriving for the private funeral were Hemingway's sister, Mrs. J. J. Jepson of Kahala, Hawaii, and Jack Hemingway, a son. Another son, Gregory, a university of Miami medical student, was also expected.

Fellow townsmen mourned the death of someone they knew more as a friendly guy than a literary giant.

The Hemingways came here Friday after a trip to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., where the novelist had been treated for high blood pressure and hepatitis. He had been to doctors several times in recent months.

Some who saw him during the weekend said he didn't appear to be despondent, but others said he was depressed about the cancer death recently of his actor friend and hunting companion Gary Cooper.

Chuck Atkinson, Ketchum motel operator and acquaintance of the author for 20 years, said Hemingway seemed to be in good spirits Saturday.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: A close friend is suing a well-to-do man in town for several thousand dollars. If she collects on this phony claim it will be an outrage.

His car struck hers as he was backing into a parking space. Last night she was repeating to a small circle of friends what had happened. She said, "I was shaken for a second but that's all. When I saw who had hit me I decided my back was seriously injured."

"When she mentioned the amount the man offered to settle out of court my blood pressure shot up. I told my husband (after every-one had left) that I was tempted to go to the man and tip him off. My husband suggested I stick to my knitting. What do you say, Ann? — JUST FURIOUS.

Dear J. Furious: Your husband gave you good advice. Do this, however:

Urge the woman to drop the case. Insurance companies are not stupid. I know of a woman who tried to collect on a similar phony. When the insurance lawyers showed movies of her emptying the garbage and mowing the lawn with her "crippled" back she got exactly what she deserved — nothing but humiliation.

Too Much Manpower

Dear Ann: I never dreamed I'd put myself on your couch but here I am.

I'm 44 and have been happily married for 20 years. We have a lovely large home. Last fall the government put up an installation nearby and sent out word that the civilian personnel needed housing. We had six spare rooms which we fixed up comfortably and rented promptly to some very nice men.

Now the problem: My husband has been asked by his firm to do a special job which will require him to be away for six months. I can't throw these men out because it's difficult to find decent facilities here. I'm unable to go with my husband because I must take care of the house and the roomers.

I know there will be plenty of gossip if I stay here with these men, although believe me, my conscience is clear. Not one of them has ever looked sideways at me.

What shall I do? — TOO MANY MEN.

Dear Too Many: Surely you have an older friend who could stay with you. Or invite one of the local school teachers to move in, rent-free. There are many possibilities. Noodle it out.

Gay Old Goat

Dear Ann: Every so often you write about an old goat who flirts with neighbors or acts foolish around young girls. My husband is 73 and has insulted every one of my lady friends until they refuse to come to the house. I'm so lonesome I could die.

I've tried to laugh it off but I know his fresh remarks are not jokes — and so do my friends. What can I do? — LONELY.

Dear Lonely: Arrange to see your friends away from your home or invite them over when you're sure the old goat will be occupied elsewhere. You should not be friendless because he's got shredded wheat where his brains belong.

Confidentially

TO M. I. NUTS?: If you are, then I am, too. I have often been struck by the resemblance between people and their pets. Yes, I'm sure they select animals for a variety of reasons — some not known to themselves.

TO FRIED SHOES AND THE GOOD LIFE: Good for whom? The program you outline is neither productive nor constructive. It's empty and meaningless. Anyone who could settle for so little at age 22 must also have fried brains.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

"What shocked me into writing for help in slimming was this: My bathing suit looked so nice in the store window, but when I put it on . . . oh! I bought it any-way and hope before the summer is over I will look the way I should in the suit." That's the spirit!

Curb your calories and get in and swim regularly and you can have a honey of a figure and a lot of fun, too. Swimming is the one exercise that rounds out curves as it slims down bulges. It gives each group of muscles their fair share of exercise, without straining any.

JUST TO show you what swimming can do for a girl's figure, did you know before Esther Williams turned into a swimming champion she was fired from her first job as a model because she didn't have a good enough figure. Barbara Stanwyck swims her daily dozen. She's quite a swimmer and calls herself, "The Poor man's Esther Williams." She swims as much of the season as possible, in the pool before breakfast and again after coming home in the evening. Here are her measurements: Bust 34, waist 25, hips 36, which is a fine figure of a movie star.

Any swim stroke is good, but some are particularly helpful for fixing certain figure faults. My favorite for desk workers is a smooth back stroke.

The rhythmic reaching back with alternate arms and pulling smoothly through the water squares the shoulders and counteracts the continual forward bending. The back stroke tones the pectoral muscles of the chest and upper arms and also makes for a slim willowy waist and midriff.

It's easy to learn this swim stroke. . . just floating with a free-wheeling motion. Lie on your back and circle alternate arms in a wide backward motion, bringing them down through the water in a rhythmic, relaxing pattern.

THE CRAWL reaches all the muscles. Turn your head from side to side with each stroke to tone the throat muscles and put dimples across the collar bones.

The old-fashioned breast stroke is rightly named for an effective curve builder. The side stroke makes for a willowy waist and streamlined midriff.

If you're not much of a swimmer, practice water calisthenics. Hang on to the side of the pool and swing alternate legs back against the resistance of the water.

To tone inner thigh muscles, swing alternate legs sideways in the water. The resistance afforded by the water makes such exercise twice as effective. And it is such a wonderful way to cool down as you shape up.

Perry Trustees Seek Fire Levy's Renewal

The first special issue for the Nov. 7 general election has been filed with the County Election Board.

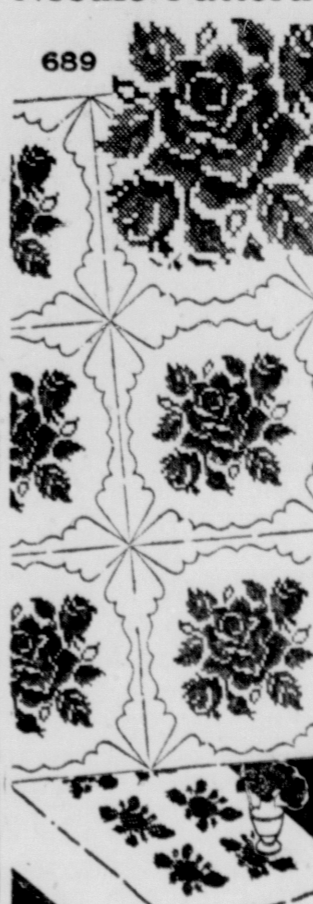

Perry Township trustees have filed a resolution asking renewal of an eight-tenths-mill levy for five years for fire protection in the township fire district. The fire district includes the township territory outside the city of Salem.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, Election Board clerk, said a "flood" of questions and issues is anticipated for the general election.

East Germans Refuse Extra Trains Request

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Communist East Germany authorities announced Monday their refusal to put on special trains to bring West German delegates to this month's big Protestant rally in threatened West Berlin.

Headquarters of the West German railways in Frankfurt made the announcement. Communist permission was needed because the trains would cross 110 miles of Red-run tracks.

The East German refusal is one of a series of moves the Reds are taking to try to make the mass rally a failure. About 35,000 members of the Evangelical churches, mostly from West Germany, are expected to participate in the rally from July 18 to 23.

Red China Visit Set

TOKYO (AP) — The newspaper Yomiuri reported Monday that Kenzo Matsumura, a leader in Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda's ruling Liberal Democratic party, will make a "private" visit to Communist China next month to discuss Chinese-Japanese relations. He was invited by Premier Chou En-lai.

Police Staged Quick Blow In Korean Shift

SEOUL, South Korea, (AP) — Pak Chum-hi, aloof master strategist who brought the military to power in South Korea, took control of the government Tuesday, dumping Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young as premier and junta chief.

Pak, 44, replaced Chang as head of the Supreme Military Council, a 28-man body which rules this troubled Asian nation of 25 million. Song Yo-chang, 45, Pak's onetime boss, became premier.

The shakeup appeared to be the outcome of a struggle for power which Pak's forces won hands down.

Pak took over as Supreme Council chairman and he kept his previous job as head of the junta's standing committee the all-important policy making body.

Pak said in a statement Chang resigned for "personal reasons." The new junta chief declared that his aims were the same as those announced under Chang—fighting communism, building a genuinely "democratic welfare state" and wiping out corruption.

On the surface the swift change-over occurred without incident.

However, it was learned that early Monday morning a military police company led by junta officers surprised guards at the Capitol, disarmed them, and took over the guard. Chang, who was sleeping in the building was awakened and taken away.

He was next seen shortly before the Cabinet session, accompanied by about 20 plain-clothesmen. Later they led him away to pay a courtesy call on President Yun Po-sun and advise him of the resignation.

Chang was believed to be in protective custody, despite a junta spokesman's denial that he had been arrested.

The U.S. Embassy apparently was taken by surprise by the shift and officials declined comment. U.S. officials in Washington viewed the events as the start of a consolidation of power within the junta.

Chang had been known as the front man for the officers who seized power from South Korea's civilian government. It had been widely speculated that Chang would be eased out. He was believed to have joined in the May coup only at the last minute and with some reluctance.

As a bland, personable man and the army chief of staff, Chang, 38, was considered a valuable front. But Pak and his followers feared Chang might be building up a following of his own to threaten the chief strategists of the coup.

There was every indication this was beginning to come about. Chang, in the meanwhile, took to his job with gusto and apparently wanted to stay on and outgrow his role as a figurehead. But Pak probably figured Chang had served his purpose.

The appointment of Song as premier was most likely an attempt to maintain good relations with the United States.

Song, a big, affable man nicknamed "Tiger" for his battlefield determination, was a favorite of American military leaders here.

Former commander of the crack "Capitol" division and later army chief of staff during the Syngman Rhee regime, Song was credited with keeping South Korean troops out of the April 1960 student revolution that ended in Rhee's downfall. At the time, Pak was one of Song's deputies.

Song later was blamed for rigging prerevolution elections. Then a lieutenant general, he was forced to retire by the civilian regime of John M. Chang. Pak was sent off to be a deputy army commander.

Song took off for the United States and was studying political economics at George Washington University in Washington when the country's new military rulers called him back last month to be defense minister, a job he will continue to hold.

Army Quits Farming

TOKYO (AP) — The U.S. Army got into farming in Japan 14½ years ago because all Japanese-grown vegetables were fertilized with night soil and were considered unsafe. It got out last week because Japanese farmers now can supply chemically grown vegetables for American servicemen at lower cost.

Count on a regular-size slice of fresh bread yielding about one cup of crumbs or tiny cubes.
